Cour's Circus.—This monster show will exhibit in this city next Monday and Monday evening. Of this show the Chicago Times, May 12, says: "The inaugural nights of the first circus of the season have attracted audiences of nearly three thousand people. The circus, hippodrome and mensgerie, owned and directed by W. C. Coup, the well known amusement manager, was calculated from its comprehensive strength and general excellence, to draw the crowd, and it fully succeeded in doing so. All the features announced ware carried out to the letter of the programme. Especial mention must be made of the famous trained Broncho stallions, which have for the past two years challenged admiration wherever they have been exhibited. Another novel feature is found in the performance of the Japanese acrobats and gymnasts, who extends our programme to the Japanese acrobats and gymnasts, who extends our programme to the performance of the Japanese acrobats and gymnasts, Cour's Circus.-This monster show will novel feature is found in the performance of the Japanese acrobats and gymnasts, who certainly exceed in their remarkable performances anything ever attempted by a similar troupe in this country. The American Indian act is an additional feature of interest, and their war dances, scalp hunt and victory dance, constituted a novelty in the ring which was certainly appreciated by the immense audience, to judge from the ringing applause which greeted their exploits.

"The performance in the arena was varied and excellent, and introduced many popular and new features. Particularly noticeable were the scts participated in by James Melville, the admirable bareback rider; Miss Emms Stokes, in her double tandem set, and Mme. Belmont in her trapeze sensation."

The remainder of the day was then taken up in feasting and whole-souled jolification—the crowd being made up principally of young people, and all working to enjoy themselves and trying to have all others do the same. The verdict was unanimous that the occasion was the most joyous of any ever participated in. The "German band" enlivened the excursion throughout the day with the most excellent of music. From the beginning to the end everything passed off perfectly harmonious and satisfactorily. There was no quarreling or rowdyism, or disturbance of any kind, during the entire trip. With the watchful care of an overruling Providence the excursion arrived home in safety, and all, great and small, were back safe in their homes before dark.
